REQUEST FOR EXPRESSION OF INTEREST

NWT Species at Risk Committee (1 Position)

The Species at Risk Committee is established under the Species at Risk (NWT) Act to assess the biological status of Species that be at risk within the Northwest Territories.

Members of the committee are experts on species, habitat, northern ecosystems, or conservation. Their expertise comes from Indigenous traditional knowledge, community knowledge or science. Members appointed to this committee do not represent the group who appointed them or anyone else, members act as individual experts.

Committee Details

- Appointments are for a period up to five years
- Appointment to the committee is done by the Minister of ECC, with consultation from Dehcho First Nations (DFN Leadership or the Executive Committee will recommend via motion the individual to be appointed at their next scheduled meeting).
- If short listed as a candidate, a biography would be submitted for review by the Minister and Conference of Management Authorities before finalizing appointment.

Expression of Interest

Please submit your resume, cover letter, and letter of interest outlining your interest and expertise to Leona Tanche, Senior Administrator by the following:

E-mail: Leona.Tanche@dehcho.org or in person at the Dehcho First Nations Office (Fort Simpson)

Applicants who are short listed will be contacted with further details on their biography to be submitted.

For more information please contact the Dehcho First Nations office at 867.695.2610 or toll free 1.866.995.3748
